

Dear Sirs:

I am concerned about the future of the telephone privacy act here in Indiana. It has been a marvelous relief not to be badgered by telemarketers every day. I finally have some peace during my dinner time expecially. I would ask that you leave the law as written in Indiana exactly as it is and not dillute it. Because of the new law I do not have problems with these companies trying to infringe on my privacy as all hours of the day and night. Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely
J. Gary Bischoff
